The period under review witnessed a partial leveling of the Corona Virus fatalities thanks partly to the ongoing mass vaccinations countrywide. As the business climate continues to totter, there are indications and hope that there might be some partial lifting of the lockdown in due course.

During the period under review, we also witnessed the demise of two leading industrialists. KitengelaBiznet condoles with their families and friends. Their stories get coverage within the inner pages. Nationally, the political temperature continues to be colorful and Kajiado County joins the bandwagon with various aspirants now openly realigning for posts come next year. Our one on one feature takes time to interview one of the aspirants. Please read his story. The political temperatures are bound rise up a notch or two higher come next year and kitengelabiznet promises to give impartial coverage of the aspirants as well as special offer on advertisements.

ONE ON ONE

With Daniel Kanchori

By Kitengelabiznet Team

The race for the Kajjado East parliamentary seat has attracted a lot of attention and has been coveted by many; it is a lucrative seat with major political significance.

One of the Leading aspirants for the seat is former Kitengela MCA and advocate Daniel Kanchori. Kitengela Biznet had the opportunity to take him to task over his bid for the seat and what his agenda for the seat is about.

What is your story?

My name is Daniel Kanchori an advocate of the high court of Kenya and currently serving as the chief administrative officer in the Kajjado County Government. Am also a former MCA Kitengela ward. I was born and raised in Kajjado County,

What makes you think you are best suited to be MP for Kajjado East?

Three things put me in good stead to the MP for Kajjado East.:

One, I have served as an MCA for the Kitengela Ward, this I believe was the best training for me to take on added responsibilities as a member of parliament,

Two, as an MCA I have an enviable track record which included the construction of the first public toilet in Kitengela, I oversaw the setting up of a modern stadium despite the big challenges from some private developers, I also initiated the coming into place of modern early childhood and development classes in all public primary schools and finally, I fully understand the intricacies and challenges of the constituency.

Three, as an advocate of the high court of Kenya I am best qualified to articulate issues affecting the electorate in the national assembly.

"Chagua ile Punda inajua kazi"

If elected, what are your plans for the constituents?

Development flows and follows good roads. The Constituency has no tarmacked road save for the main artery. I intend to improve the road infrastructure and see that the feeder roads are tarmacked. I have in mind the Kitengela - Rongai access road, the Birika – Pipeline road and the Sultan Hamud -Konza – Isinya roads. Additionally, I would strive to ensure that women and the youth from Kajjado East constituency are given the first priority when it comes to employment in the parastatals.

Describe the challenges you expect to surmount as the next MP?

Kajjado East is a vast constituency with poor infrastructure which means that it is a challenge to speedily get the necessary and essential services down to the village levels.

How would you describe the present political temperature in the county?

It is a period for political realignment both for the incumbents and aspirants. The electorates are also relatively well informed compared to yester years. It means that the selling points are bound to be issue based. I see competition for every seat going to the wire.

Every vote will therefore count.

What is your party of choice?

Orange Democratic Movement -ODM

Why ODM?

The country is going through a transitional period, and transition periods historically are very sensitive times. You therefore need very safe pair of hands to manage transitions. It is my conviction that Raila Amolo Odinga is the safest pair of hands compared to the other declared presidential candidates.

I am sure when he steps into the big office-which I know he will- then his main agenda would be to ensure that he leaves a commendable legacy.

What will you do different from what the incumbent is doing?

The role of an MP is to articulate the issues bedeviling his constituents and also to be the link between the County and the national government. I will therefore strive to have KERRA and KENHA tarmac the many feeder roads, tasks which a fall under the ambit of the national government. Additionally, If elected I would ensure that there is a public Schools in every ward in Kajjado East. It is sad that today children criss cross to other constituencies to attend school.

Your final thoughts?

We are a very peaceful constituency despite it being so cosmopolitan. with effective leadership, the constituency is capable of reaching even higher heights of development. I shall provide that leadership.

Competency Based Curriculum (CBC)??

CBC requires a comprehensive change in the instructional approach in terms of teaching, learning, and assessment.

By E Wangui

Clearly I have more questions than answers. As a parent I'm more connected to my child as we spend extra time together every evening. As an 8-4-4 graduate CBC made lots of sense in theory, well then theorems and $x + y$ haven't made sense yet, but I'm not mad at my ability to have a broad set of abilities in my arsenal, I can confidently chip in a number of topics thanks to the 8-4-4 system. Should we bring it back? Hasn't it raised this society we are in? Should they have polished the system, created a better way in it instead of a complete massacre? CBC, the light that was, a quick fix to serve the 2030 goals. Was it a panic reaction to the quickly changing world? Was the fear the fear that we can't control the economy? We the government? Was an unchecked system a wise solution to experiment with the future generation? Did we forget that we are a third world generation? Did the fast moving first world inspire a gluttonous reaction from us? We the parents are calling for #CBCmustfall.

I am not denying the fact that 2-6-3-3-3 curriculum is truly a game changer for any and society. I can see it; the vision is almost perfect empowering our children with the exact skills and empowerment that they need to live fulfilled lives. They are developed according to who they are their strengths and weaknesses are seen at an early age by both parent and teacher. Both works together to direct the child in the right path. This is an empowered child, a child that grows with a true knowledge of who they are and work on their creativity along the way. Imagine the possibilities

As parents and teachers are we ready? I am glad that I spend a little more time with my baby, I love the way her face brightens when she loves a subject. I notice that she can't do other things well and I assist her. So are we ready to do this till they're grown? After a long day in the ever unsure weather and relentless dust do we have it in us to recite, make art, hold cameras etc.?

Is the new system separating the next generation in terms of the rich will be richer and the poor making scare crows and being clowns? Is this system just to all the children in Kenya? This is no offence to the rich parent kindly give your child the best you can offer and also assist the poor parent to be the government.

So CBC???

Club 034: The Pride of Kajiado

Air Kajiado gives you a chance to sample culinary delights

By Kiptanui Rutto

As you leave Kitengela town you will see a 707 Boeing with staircase set on it. Yes, you will think there is an airport there. A bee-hive of activities around the place with tens of cars parked near it. You are wrong, there is no airport there.

A multi-million facility dubbed: “The Pride of Kajiado” has opened its doors in Kajiado County and is set to become as a major boon in the region’s growing hospitality industry.

Kajiado’s Air 034 Bar and Restaurant, located along the busy Kitengela and Namanga Road, nearly 2 Kilometres from Kitengela town promises to become a major tourist attraction centre in the region.

Ng’etich, the proprietor said the facility will come in handy at a time when there is high population growth in the area.

“The facility is strategically placed and will be easily accessed by motorists and those willing to be dropped off at Yukos stage since we are less than ten metres away from the main road,” Ng’etich stated.

With Kitengela emerging as a getaway for majority of Nairobi residents who would like to enjoy their time and the delicacies of roast goat meat, this is the place to be. We will offer better quality services for the locals who are keen on spending their weekend together with their families.

Though he said that people think that roast meat has to be done with charcoal oven, the facility seeks to do it in a different way.

“We want to look for other alternatives but more fun such as gas grill of its kind -roasting a capacity of five goats or 200 orders at ago- so that it is environmentally friendly and reduces illnesses associated with meat roasting using charcoal burners.

Choma can be roasted in other ways and be healthier, we use gas grill as the charcoal might have side effects as a result of smoke.

“We are targeting people not only those gether' session, it offers them a better opportunity as its accessibility will be a big boost.

"We have enough space for groups of people eager to sample our local cuisine," he stated.

In the plane, there is a VIP bar and restaurant coupled with live music from a band. Here, one can have an excellent view of Kitengela and a section of Kajiado County especially the panoramic view of Ngong Hills through the plain.

"We will offer the necessary utensils to those who want to come and cook for themselves as they enjoy their stay at the facility," he said.

With ample parking space that can accommodate over 100 vehicles, he believes that he is raring to rattle the market.

"Our prices are affordable and the services better and will improve with time to give our patrons unrivaled experience," he promised.

The new facility will also offer direct employment to Kenyans to work as chefs and other hotel staff. "We will offer a ready market for farmers to supply us with eggs, milk, chicken, vegetables and other requirement," he said.

For affordable drinks.

who want to come to the place over the weekend besides those from Nairobi and other places who would want to visit the town," Ng'etich noted.

For those who want to have a 'get to-

Death of Deep State

The period under review saw the demise of a business magnate Christopher Kirubi (CK). CK fell due to cancer, a sickness he had fought with dignity and rancor for 5 years or so years.

A typical grass to grace story, CK rose to be one of the wealthiest personalities in the country with an estimated wealth of over Ksh40Billion in 2016.

His money flowed from investment in the media, transportation, real estate manufacturing and the hotel and tourism industry as well as the money markets.

He is fondly remembered for his business advice in an online newspaper. Tweets from CK were particularly intense and remarkably his last tweet was six hours before his demise. What emerged during his burial was that he was a serious political influencer behind the curtains. Mourners from both sides of the divide eulogized him as a keen influencer of the daily political leanings from wings as he believed rightly-that without the proper brand of politics, then business will fail to prosper and with it the general good of the country and the citizens wont suffer.

For this behind the curtains activities in promoting good politics. It is appropriate to brand him "the deep state".

A Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde

The period under review also witnessed the demise of Mr.Naushad Merali.

Mr. Merali was an extremely wealthy personality with the Forbes magazine estimating his assets about Ksh60 Billion and pronouncing him as the second wealthiest person in the country.

Mr. Meralli assets included Yana tyres, Sameer group of companies legendary of Dr.Jerkyl, Merali was a jovial personality in social circles and a philanthropist, helping the needy in so many number of ways.

But he became a Mr.Hyde in business deals portraying a ruthless nose for profit with a keen strategic mind for negotiations. It is confirmed that back in 2005 he managed to make a profit of Ksh 1.2Billion within a space of 2 hours.

Like Chris Kirubi it is rumored that he was on the presidents speed dial

Rest in Peace Naushad Meralli
