From the Editor's Desk

'Tis the season. It is the last month of the year and yes It is December. 'Tis the season. The year 2021 is gone. It is the year that the brought the world almost to a standstill and reminded humanity that not everything should be taken for granted.

It is a year where over 1.5 million lives were lost from the COVID 19 Pandemic. A year where businesses were closed down, a year when families underwent mental stress and couples emotionally became distant. Society also went rogue with increased cases of suicide reported and the security guardians being blamed for many cases of homi-suicide . All these were attributed to the scourge But hopes spring eternal. We have to let go the 2021 and build a new resolve while welcoming 2022.

It is also the season of good will and despite the challenges of 2021 we have to lift ourselves up, do a tally of our personal lives and businesses and spread the cheer!

We thank all of our advertisers who supported the business by placing the many advertisements despite the many business challenges in so... so...so... many ways. from all the staff of Kitengela blznet we wish you a happy new year and a prosperous 2022.

'Tis the season!!!

THE STORY OF FLYING GARDENS

Helping hands is a Nairobi-based NGO that attempts to provide food sustainability to land-scarce and vulnerable populations in economically disadvantaged areas.

How?

The concept is the use of gunny bags and soil to grow vegetables in very small spaces.

Easy! Just that?

Not exactly easy, you see they have to mix the manure in various proportions and sort out the soil using bare hands removing all non-organic matter in the soil, subsequently, the manure is arranged systematically in gunny bags in such a way that it holds well. After that holes are made at the sides of the gunny bag and therefore vegetables can be planted.

So no chemicals are used?

No purely organic

How do the plants get water in the gunny bag?

Collected water stored into bottle and the bottles inserted onto the sides of the gunny bags where the plants draw their water. Thousands of families generate a source of nutrition for their daily meals and source of income too.

I see, does it need big space?

Minimum space needed, actually in some middle class areas like South B, C, Kilimani and Komarock, Families have set them up on the balcony of the houses. It is also a perfect stress reliever by the way.

How long can the Sukuma wiki feed a family of four say?

One gunny bag can comfortably feed a family for six months

What is the overall cost of setting up such?

Apart from purchasing of seedlings, manure and gunny bag, the rest will be logistics and that can be done by our trained Farm technicians at minimal cost

So who is the contact person for setting up and training?

Talk to me

BOB NJAGI: I AM THE BEST MAN FOR KAJIADO EAST

What is your story?

Bob Njagi is a loving father of three boys. An astute born again Christian and member of the Presbyterian Church of East Africa - Kitengela township. I have been a resident of Kajiado County and Kitengela town in particular for the last thirty plus years and I own several properties in Kitengela.

I am a hotelier by profession having graduated from Andrew Hardy College with an advanced diploma. A seasoned businessman with investment in real estate, telecommunications, supplies management, and in Small and medium enterprises (SME). On a regional level, I am a co-founder of a regional organization called Africans for Africa (AFA). An organization that addresses issues such as climate change, humanitarian relief, good governance, promote education and human rights advocacy in Africa and enhancement of regional unity of the people of Africa.

What is your motivation to run for political office?

As a community and grassroots leader I have helped the formation of many youth/women groups, trade associations, sports associations CBO's/CSO's that provide a platform for various people to engage in diverse social economic developmental projects. This has become possible through team work and partnership - a critical component in leadership and development.

ODM Deputy director of elections Bob Njagi with RT . H.E Hon Raila Odinga party leader in a past fuction

Inclusivity with all persons and sectors of society irrespective of tribe, gender, religion or political affiliation. A leader who will enhance unity through inclusivity in sharing of national resources. I am that leader.

What is your political history?

My life in active politics begun in the year 2012 when I together with some colleagues we founded and established youth for Raila (Y-FORA). A lobby group that spearheaded nationwide campaigns targeting the youth vote to mobilize support and votes for the then presidential candidate Raila Odinga.

As chairman of the youthful, visible and vibrant lobby group I steered through a presidential campaign that saw the team crisscross the length and breadth of Kenya and beyond canvassing for votes amongst Kenyans of all walks of life. Post 2013 general elections,

Bob Njagi with other ODM delegates in a past function

I was appointed as the first Deputy director of elections/campaigns in 2014 for a five-year term deputizing Hon. Junet Mohammed. During this period, I helped steer the party through a very turbulent political environment and led the party to emerge victorious in several by elections including Kajiado Central, Malindi , Homabay, Nyacheki, Kitutu Chache constituency among others.

With RT. Hon Raila Odinga during the launch of Y-FORA at Bomas of Kenya In 2013

With South Sudan's First Vice president Dr. Riek Machar , Hon Puot Kang, Late Major Rumbek former minister of defense and Hon Reuben Ndolo at a past meeting for AFRICANS FOR AFRICA

It is through my influence in this position that I helped manufacture PPE's for county governments at the onset of COVID-19. This intervention made it possible for county governments to procure personal protective equipment such as face masks, overalls and coveralls at a fraction of the cost of KEMSA.

What has been your contribution to humanitarian affairs in the country?

In 2018, I co - founded the Free-Kenya movement. A people driven movement of change. Some of the main Free Kenya proposed amendments touch on; Tax reforms, People's governments, Devolution, Better representation of youths , women , PWD's and the marginalized, Electoral as well as Constitutional commissions and judiciary reforms.

The Free Kenya movement which I have the privilege to serve as the chairperson has representation from across various stakeholders including the civil society, social justice movements, and the media is currently mobilizing 1,000,000 signatures to present to IEBC. It is an organic bill anchored in the web portal www.freekenyasignatures.com

With RT. Hon Raila Odinga @ the launch of Y-FORA @ Bomas of Kenya In 2013.

Are you not talking about the disbanded BBI?

More or less. Yes.

What lessons did you learn from your failed attempt as a MP in 2017?

Failed is not the correct word to use considering the ODM nominations never came to fruition. Admittedly, it was my first attempt in elective politics when I vied for the position of MP Kajiado East together with three other aspirants. The ODM party primaries were botched leading to the courts which ordered a repeat exercise. If the Party does not correctly manage its primary elections, then it is bound to lose in the general elections.

“RAO has on several times been outgunned but never outfought”

Why do you think you are the best bet for Kajiado East?

Kajiado East is today a fully cosmopolitan constituency whose residents come from all corners of Kenya and other countries worldwide. This great constituency is in dire need for proper representation in the national government. Despite the rapid growth and transformation in the private sector the public sector lags behind in provision of critical and essential government services. The population has ballooned exponentially and therefore requires proactive and transformative leadership that will champion the social economic development agenda going forward. Having resided for 30 years in Kajiado East, I strongly believe that given an opportunity I will offer strategic leadership that will best articulate issues of concern and come up with sustainable solutions for the betterment of the people.

If elected what would be your priority areas?

The key priority areas will include but not limited to; Climate change action, Improvement of the dilapidated school infrastructures, I shall strive to development road infrastructures and the sewerage, Youth, women, PWD's, minorities empowerment programs through enabling SME's , youth groups, women groups , CBO's, CSO's, Promoting sports, arts and cultural heritage, Enhancing peace and security for all residents of Kajiado East by encouraging a harmonious coexistence and cohesion amongst all communities living in Kajiado East.

In the recent past you have been involved in altercation with some authorities. What light can you shed on this?

As a human rights and land rights activist and defender affiliated to many HRD organizations both locally and internationally I have been in the forefront of fighting for grabbed public utilities In Kajiado East and have successfully managed to recover the following public lands that had been unduly allocated to private developers they include the Kitengela stadium, - Kitengela community grounds behind Tosha petrol station. And the Kitengela police station behind Jua Kali. . Today this public lands are being utilized for their intended purpose

What party will be your vehicle of choice for the upcoming elections?

I have been an ordinary member of Orange Democratic movement since 2012 and a life member since 2017. I also have a very special rapport with the ODM leader Raila Odinga. As for my 2022 bid I will be launching my campaign in the month of February 2022 at which point I will present to the people of Kajiado East the vehicle which we shall use to vie for the

Officially kicked off the Uganda Vs Kenya FIFA world championship qualifiers

Final thoughts?

I have consistently fought for the truth and justice for the common Mwananchi of Kajiado East and beyond. I have been loyal to one political party since 2012 and through it I have gained many contacts and network both nationally and internationally which I can use in good stead to better the lives of Kajiado East residents.

The office party

It is Christmas and end of year; it is the season of merry making and making fun, a season of good cheer and laughter, a season of steady binge drinking and of crazy hangovers.

My office –Ashen group of companies - annual party is normally held two or three days before the Christmas party and ends – well- two or three months later... or even much later in the year depending on how long it takes the boss to remember who indeed made that practical joke on him during the party.

Usually the merry making begins in a modest way normally at about 3 o'clock in the afternoon in the company's board room converted for partying. It begins with a first round of drinks with the different groups of peers standing in groups engaged in small talk with the occasional loud and quickly subdued bursts of laughter.

Precisely at about 4 o'clock, the CEO Mr. Jooko emerges from an inner sanctum where he had ensconced himself much earlier with our best customers and where also he was fortifying himself with a few tots of whisky to get him into the best party mood. So as the party mood builds up, the CEO marches in, He is in a jovial smile that fools no one. Mr. Jooko is a great believer in cementing employer staff relationships, and his conduct is an example of cooperation between brass and the underlings;

After a few opening remarks, in which the CEO puts everybody in the proper holiday mood by explaining that production has slumped so badly that he is seriously thinking of downsizing, - A great one to set people in a party mood is our CEO. This our beloved CEO explains is the truth and adds not unnecessarily "Nobody said that the truth will make you happy-only free!" After this one liner he bursts into a mirthy whisky fueled laugh which we hurriedly join in, I mean nobody wants to be downsized!

The next hour or so is devoted to shaking hands and getting acquainted. After all the main idea of an office party is for the different branches of the organization is to get to know each other better.

After sufficient beer and spirits have been copiously taken, the ice will have been shattered and people start not calling each other by their first names but are also adding certain endearing epithets which have been kept bottled up all through the year. For example that mild , retiring and soft spoken Mr. Sichwa of the accounting department has just backed up his immediate superior into a corner and is telling him in a loud voice that he ought to know for his own good what people are saying about him.

Delicate Little Miss Suzie, Computer savvy and recently recruited in suspicious circumstances personally by the CEO is contributing to the general merriment by regurgitating the expensive whisky in the artificial flowers in rather un-ladylike manner. Mr Musungu of security (Pocket full of beer bottles tops on account of an ongoing sales promotion) having pursued his secretary – Tabby- around the rearranged desks has cornered her behind the filing cabinet and is assuring her in his best accented language that his wife doesn't understand him.

Mr. Owiti, the conscientious office administrator, is wandering from room to room with a harried expression, retrieving a cigarette butts here and there, while rearranging the glasses and generally correcting any emerging wrongdoings.

By early evening the party is in shambles, the earlier smartly dressed and conservative officers are now in shirt sleeves. Paper cups, broken glasses now litter the floor. Even the ever quite Mister Ruto formerly working in Qatar is now loudly singing in an off-key voice. Su su sukari!!!

By the time the affairs break up, long toward midnight-so much ill will has been generated among the Ashen group of companies staff that it will take at least twelve months for the organization to get back to normal and that will be time for the next years office party.

Welcome to our annual end office party!
